

Coach Vince Dooley Student Scholarship Application

Application Deadline: June 1

Program Overview

Established in 2023 to honor Coach Vince Dooley of the University of Georgia, this scholarship celebrates the power of lifelong learning and the unexpected paths that lead to horticulture. After an extraordinary career in athletics and leadership, Coach Dooley discovered a deep passion for plants later in life. His interest was sparked through coursework with renowned horticulturists Dr. Michael Dirr and Dr. Allan Armitage, whose teaching ignited his curiosity and appreciation for plant science and garden design.

Coach Dooley embraced horticulture with the same discipline, enthusiasm, and commitment that defined his coaching career. He became an avid home gardener and dedicated plant collector, developing a particular love for woody plants and the educational role gardens play in shaping thoughtful, observant stewards of the land. His genuine excitement for learning resonated widely, demonstrating that horticulture is accessible, meaningful, and transformative at any stage of life.

This all-inclusive annual scholarship honors Coach Dooley's legacy by supporting students within the International Plant Production Society community. The award provides access to education, networking, and professional opportunities, inspiring recipients to pursue horticulture with curiosity, humility, and passion, values Coach Dooley embodied throughout his life.
